ANNUAL INCOME TAX.

Deputy Collector Will Visit Grayling January 26 and 27.

The annual income tax "drive" is now on, and it is purposed by Collector John A. Grogan, of Detroit, to have one of his field deputies visit every town in the district, if possible, before the close of the campaign to instruct taxpayers as to the manner o making returns and render such as sistance as they can in the short time that can be spent in each place. De puty Collector Scott Cilley will visi Grayling on January 26 and 27, mak ing his headquarters at Court House where taxpayers may meet him. Much time will be saved if figures are carefully compiled and classified as to receipts and expenses before visiting the deputy.

Forms. for making reports have been mailed to all those who last year reported for the income tax, and these forms should be brought by the taxpayer when he visits the deputy collector. Every single person whose income in 1919 was $1,000.00 or more and every married person whose in and every married person whose in-come was $2,000.00 or more is re-quired to make return.

DR. INSLEY IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SER-

VICES HELD AT ST. MARY'S

The funeral of Dr. Stanley N. Ins. ey, who passed away at his home in his city, Wednesday of last week, was held Saturday morning.

At the home there was a profusion of flowers, coming from scores of people in the city and from large numbers of friends out of the city, many beautiful pieces coming from fraternities and associations of which Dr. Insley had been a member. There were floral pieces from some of the grades and classes of the school. The top of the casket, when it was borne to St. Mary's church, where the funeral services were to be held, was completely covered with blankets and streamers of flowers.

St. Mary's church wore its purple, plack and white robes of mourning, and a Requiem high mass was celebrated in honor of Dr. Insley. Fr. Joseph Herr of Detroit sang the mass, Joseph Herr of Detroit sang the mass, Fr. A. Webeler of Cheboygan acted as deacon, and Fr. George Nye of Mackinaw as sub-deacon. Fr. J. J. Riess of St. Mary's parish was master of ceremonies and delivered the splendid sermon in tribute to Dr. Insley. Near the beginning of the service Miss Helen Reagan sang "Face to Face" in a beautiful manner, and at the conclusion "When Night Folds its Star Curtain" was nicely rendered by Francis Reagan. After the mass was Fr. Riess' sermon, in which and by Francis Resgain. After the mass was Fr. Riess' sermon, in which he paid a high tribute to the deceased. The edifice was filled to its capacity with people and many went to the church only to turn away being unable to gain entrance. There was church only to turn away being unable to gain entrance. There was hardly standing room and extra seats were placed in the isles to accommodate many. The business places, and the mills of the Salling Hanson company were closed during the forenoon in respect to the deceased physician, and in order that those who wished to might go and pay homage to their friend. The pall-bearers, associates of the Doctor, were the Messrs. Marius Hanson, Esbern Hanson, Frank Ahman, Charles Tromble, M. A. Bates and Henry Baumann.

Ahman, Charles Tromble, M. A. Bates and Henry Baumann.
Relatives and friends of the deceased from out of the city, who were in attendance included Mrs. W. D. Insley of Colburn, Ont., mother of Dr. Insley; Mr. and Mrs. Newton C. CIRCUIT COURT PROCEEDINGS.

CIRCUIT COURT PROCEEDINGS.

The January term of Circuit Court convened at the Court House in this city last Monday afternoon and closing Tuesday afternoon. Hon, Judge Guy E. Smith of Gladwin presided, and Court Stenographer Claude L. Austin of West Branch was at his post as usual. There was an exceptionally short term of court, there being but eight cases on the docket for disposal.

The Non-Jury Civil case of George W. Parker vs. Ray Baldwin, appeal from Justice court was continued. The chancery cases of Nettie Dreese vs. Frank Dreese, divorce; John Morrissey vs. Julia Morrissey, divorce; and Robert W. Dunn vs. Ernest P. Richardson, bill of complaint on redemption of tax title were all continued to the next term of court. Decrees were granted in the cases of Bessie Reid vs. Robert Reid, also Oscar B. Smith vs. Viola M. Smith. No car B. Smith vs. viola M. Smith. No action was taken on the case of Martin Jagos, petition for naturalization. The only case that created much interest was the criminal case of The people vs. Charles Frederickson. The atter was charged with embezzlement by the American Railway Express company. It seems that during the company. It seems that during the time he was employed by this company in their local office as express agent, it was charged by the company that he had collected a C. O. D order and failed to turn same in. At the time he was arrested he was discharged from their employ and was confined to the county jail for seven days. Several motions were presented by E. M. Harris of West Branch, attorney for Fredrickson, and Judge Smith.

Several motions were presented by E. M. Harris of West Branch, attorney for Frederickson, and Judge Smith held the case over to the next morning to enable him to consider the merits of the motions. These motions were for the dismissal of the case and discharge of the defendant. The motions were denied when court re-convened Tuesday morning. At the close of hearing the testimony Attorney Harris again made a motion for the discharge of the case and after discussion between the court and attorneys, Prosecutor H. L. Fitch acting in behalf of the people, Judge Smith granted the motion and the defendant was relieved from custody and fully discharged. It was a pretty hard fought battle and Mr. Harris is to be congratulated for the capable manner in which he defended his client. There seems to have been a lot of frouble in the express office here at times and shortages have been charged against the agents. In the case of Frederickson the latter was young and inexperienced and had been driver of the Express wagon, and when the agent left the office that position was offered to him, and he said. "I don't know, anything about running the office," and it is reported that his predecessor said, "go shead and tackle the job, you can do it." He was inexperienced and too young for such an important job and it appears that he had the work and vectoris "balled" up and resulted utimetally in his arrest.

WOMEN'S VICTORY

FOR EQUAL VOTING FIGHT RIGHTS TO BE DECIDED BOON.

STATE LEGISLATURES MEET

More Ratifications Necessary Legalize Equal Franchise Clause to Constitution.

Weshington-The American woman's long fight for equal suffrage enters upon its final stage this week, when the annual sessions of state legislatures convene. Suffrage leaders have every hope of ratification by e sufficient number of states to insure full participation by 28,000,000 women voters in the presidential and congressionzal elections next November.

To achieve their goal of full voting rights in the selection of the next presdent of the United States, the suffrage leaders admittedly have a difficult task ahead of them, but with the pledges of both national political parties for sincere co-operation to complete ratifica- JANUARY 18 TO BE DRY SUNDAY tion by 36 states, the women feel that only unexpected obstacles can defeat them.

Twenty-two states have ratified the nineteenth amendment. In the order of their ratification they are. Wiscon sin, Michigan, Kansas, Ohio, York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Massa-chusetts, Texas, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Montana, Nebraska, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Celorado.

The legislatures of four states where the suffrage leaders are hope ful of ratification, meet in regular ses sion this week, Kentucky, New Jorsey, khode Island and Maryland. Governo Olcott, of Oregon, has called the legis luture of that state to meet in special session January 12 for ratification of the suffrage amendment, and there is no doubt as to the outcome there Nine states with Republican gov ernors have legislatures pledged to ratify the amendment if called in spe cial session and the Republican national committee is on record with a promise to urge such acton. These states are Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Indiana, New Mexico Vermont, Washington and Wyoming Of these states, Arizona, Idaho, Indiana Washington and Wyoming already have granted full or presidentia suffrage to women by state action. Three states with Democratic gov ratify if called. They are Nevada, hibition Act." Oklahoma and West Virginia.

To minimize what appear to be the odds against them, the women point full suffrage have not ratified. These states are Arizona, Idaho, Nevada, Oklahoma, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming. Suffrage sentiment in those states is so strong, it is stated, that special sessions in all of them are probable.

HOW TO MAKE THE GRASSHOP-PER PAY HIS WAY ON FARM.

Farmers in quite a large section of vestern Michigan, especially north of Frand Rapids, suffered severely from the grasshopper plague last year and the insects also caused some damage in small sections of Northeastern Michigan

The danger of a renewal of the avages of this pest the coming season and a possible extension of the territory to suffer from it is realized by agriculturalists, county agricultural agents and others and are being devised for fighting it.

Poison bait was used quite success fully in some localities, and where its use is started early enough and kept up systematically it is efficient body in a threatened district to figh grasshoppers, in this way.

W. P. Hartman, agricultural and industrial agent of the G. R. & I. in a letter to the depart of poultry husbandry of the Michigan Agricultural college, copes of which were also sent to Secre tary Marston, of the Northeastern Michigan Development bureau, and to others who are working for the welfare of their communities, suggests a method of making the grasshopper "pay his way" and at the same time climinating him as a dangeneus pest. His idea is a greater attention to poultry breeding and he cites the fact that in some western states this method proved the most afficacious of any attempted.

He says that a flock of turkey will clean up the grasshoppers in a field in a short time and that, with the grain and seeds and other food the pick up at the same time, they need little or no other food. Next to tur keys come ducks as grasshopper feed ers and even a flock of active hens

With turkeys retailing at 50 cent. a pound and chickens and ducks at from 35 to 40 cents, they are bound to be a profitable part of the farm's production as well as more than paying their way in the good work they will do in eliminating grasshoppers is Mr. Hartman's idea. Young tur keys can be bought from breeders at

How do you shake hands? I heard a man express himself very forcibly on the subject the other day. "If there's anything drives me wild," he said, "it's to have a woman lay her hand in mine as though it were a drink of milk and water, or a soggy paneake If she doesn't want to shake hands then she ought to just plain refuse But it she does want to, why then, let her do it as though she means it."

Shaking hands is just like ever thing else. You can do it with you heart in the right place, or through the ceremony as if your hear were about a thousand miles away

Home Store Service.

The service of the stores of Grayling is not confined to bringing the products of the world to your back door. It includes a civic service also.

Home merchants are earnestly desirous for community progress. It is for their interest to have the town advance, for it means more business for them. But that is not the only reason. When a man has centered his life and his hopes and activities in this community, he feels hearty pride in it and will work for it for other motives than dollars

Thus the home stores of Crayling are a center of energy for movements calculated to build up this community. When you spend your money in some distant city, you give your support to people who have not the slightest interest in your home town. When you spend money at the home store, you add to the influence and power of men who work 365 days in the year for the advance of Grayling.

How we pick a winner!

A long time ago we learned that to fill our logical place in the community, we needed to do more than sell groceries." We had to sell "service."

Perhaps you don't know it, but we feel a keen sense of responsibility for everything we sell you. We feel it is our duty to know all there is to be known about the products on our shelves. So, when something new comes on the market we test it. Test it in our own homes. That's one way we render service.

A striking example of this is Ryzon, The Perfect Baking Powder. Now, we were among the first to realize that if Ryzon was all that it was said to be, we ought to know about it.

And now we do. We know so much about it that we recommend it to you as the dependable, economical baking powder. We sell you your flour, eggs and other ingredients and we want your baking to be successful—there is no better way of insuring this, we feel, than by selling you Ryzon.

It is 40c per pound, and we would like to tell you something about the Ryzon Baking Book which is a complete manual of baking, edited by Marion Harris Neil, and comprising 200 tested recipes. Ask how to get this $1.00 book for 30c.

I've never been in your home and, of like it. Similar? Yes, but there's a difference, you know. Consequently.

I'm not going to say anything more about your home; I'm going to talk of their homes and you may draw the comparison for yourself if you want to.

There are three kinds of homes in Beigium, the one in the comparatively undestroyed city that the German tried to keep for himself; the home in the shelled and fired village, and the home in No Man's Land. Oh, yes, there are homes there. But walt, we cannot be omnipresent; we must visit they advertise. There's the house to which we are going—that one where the painter is working on the door. Queer, isn't it, how all of the houses look alike here?—narrow, of white plaster with a sharp pointed roof.

This door is like all the other doors, too. It has the same sort of dents made by butts of German guns demanding entrance; the same kind of misfitting wooden letter slot to replace the copper one the Germans took; the same pattern of ugly iron door handle substituting for the old one of bronze

That is why the painter is hired, even if necessities must be sacrificed, to

You must not notice that the doors have no knobs. They were brass and one place at a time.

But how can so many people live it such small homes? They can because they must. The more fortunate ones must make room for those who have Your Home and not been left even the bricks of their Theirs

And now we are reaching No Man's As we enter that desolate, deep-pitted waste, cluttered with splintered bay onets, broken guns and grinning skulls, we pass a tiny building made of odds and ends of sheetiron and on it the owner, who possesses a grim sense of humor, has painted "Tank Cafe—Beer, Wine and Ale Sold Here."

One cannot work so well to recover

We make our way gingerly among the shells that lie about, for sometimes, you know, some of them are only camonflaging as duds and, when dis plosion. The mutilated, leafless gray trees look like ghosts. Often we find beneath them a few crosses and we meet a man and woman who stop to look at each cross. Will they find the one they are seeking? The poppies that grow in the shell-holes are crim-soned with the blood that ran over Flanders-dream flowers, filled with the dreams of heroes sleeping where

But we must hurry. There in the distance you see a few mounds. They are houses newly erected by those who returned to find their town obliterated. But what queer things they are! So are made of bags filled with hardened dirt. A man smiles as he sees your curiosity. "Bags of earth they brought for their dugouts," he explains. "We

Madame van Bree has not forgotten that her mattresses, her linen and her opper kitchen utensils are keeping company with doorknobs in Germany. We quit the city and, as we walk up the street of a fire-eaten village, we wonder at the number of people hurrythe most part only crumbling shells of houses line the roadway. But, swing-ing from the yawning doors of these wrecks, are signs which startle us, "Coiffeur," "Cafe," and others, "Coiffeur," "Cafe," and others. Through a hole in a front walf we step into a roofless building. After walking between heaps of debris we reach a little two-roomed home made from bricks that fell when the front of the house crashed in. There again we see the sign, "Cafe." Within, a tall woman in a white cap and blue apron bustles about the neat, bare room, preparing coffee and pouring beer for the customers. Over in the corner an old woman sits making lace. Her faded eyes are weary of seeing a world of chaos and they cling to the lace for solace. She can weave what pictures she wants into the lace.

As we wander through the village we find that almost everybody is fiving in a house that is at least half destroyed. But the people we meet chuckle and say, "You should have seen us six months ago. This is really to what we were then. Have you seen our dance platform?"

"Dances!" you gasp. "Do you have them here?"

We are shown the wooden floor in the cleared basement of a shattered "We must dance and make merry. It is not good to be always sad.

One of these, larger than the others, is a church. Finally we find people living in the old dugouts. They live? Well, exist, if you prefer furniture is only scraps. From their plowing they reap a harvest of glaring skulls and rotting tunics. But, in spite of it all, they have their kermess, their merrymaking and, out of old car-tridges, the children with hungry eyes make whistles on which to play tunes.

These are the homes of Beiglum; these are the people of Belgium, struggling to lift their homes out of the ruins. It will be long before the weak grass that grows in the shell-holes is bright, sturdy green; it will be long before Relgium can rest. But the world is wrong if it believes that the black-draped, drooping, supplicating figure it calls "Belgium" in its pageants is a true representation. Out on the travail on Flanders' felds a new Belgium was born. It has thrived n privation, stiffened through suffering. It lives and makes its home among the ruins. It laughs and dances where the world may see it; it sols alone when none are near to bear. The war is not over for Belgium; the fight of peace must be won.
